

Maternal, Neonatal and Pediatric Transport Service

Texas Children's Hospital Kangaroo Crew offers maternal transport services for obstetrical patients in need of specialized care. We've combined decades of experience in pediatric and neonatal transport with our expertise in high-risk pregnancy care to serve expecting mothers throughout the Greater Houston area – and beyond.

Our team

Our maternal transport team consists of a critical care nurse, labor and delivery nurse, respiratory therapist and an emergency medical technician who work together to provide specialized care according to the mother and baby's unique needs. Our team of highly experienced high-risk care coordinators will provide you with updates on the care of your patients and you will be informed of your patient's status during her care. When you need help transferring your patient to a higher level of maternal-fetal and neonatal care, you can count on Texas Children's Pavilion for Women.

Why Texas Children's Pavilion for Women?

As a referring physician, you can have confidence knowing your high-risk patients will be in the best hands when transporting them to the Pavilion for Women.

The Pavilion for Women is home to one of the nation's few labor and delivery based ICUs dedicated solely to critical care obstetrics, including the following complications of pregnancy:

- Autoimmune disorders
- Cardiology and fetal cardiology
- Diabetes and other endocrine disorders
- Fetal intervention
- Hematology and oncology
- Hypertensive disorders
- Placenta accreta spectrum

Patients also have immediate access to Texas Children's Fetal Center®, level IV maternal care and level IV neonatal intensive care, as well as all subspecialty programs including Texas Children's Heart Center, ranked #1 in the nation for pediatric cardiology and heart surgery by U.S. News & World Report.

How to initiate a transfer

To initiate a patient transfer to the Pavilion for Women, please contact Mission Control at 832-824-5550. You will be connected to a coordinator to facilitate your transfer request.
